Interhelp is a growing network whose purpose is to provide people the opportunity to experience and share with others their deepest responses to the dangers which threaten our planet— be they dangers of nuclear holocaust, environmental deterioration, or human oppression. We aim to enable people to know the power that comes from their interconnectedness with all life and to move beyond powerlessness and numbness into action.

Interhelp offers workshops, guest speakers, and a bi-monthly newsletter. We also offer articles, free leaflets, and a book entitled "Despair And Personal Power In the Nuclear Age" by Joanna Macy.
