FREEDOM BOOKSHOP

BOOKLIST JULY 1985

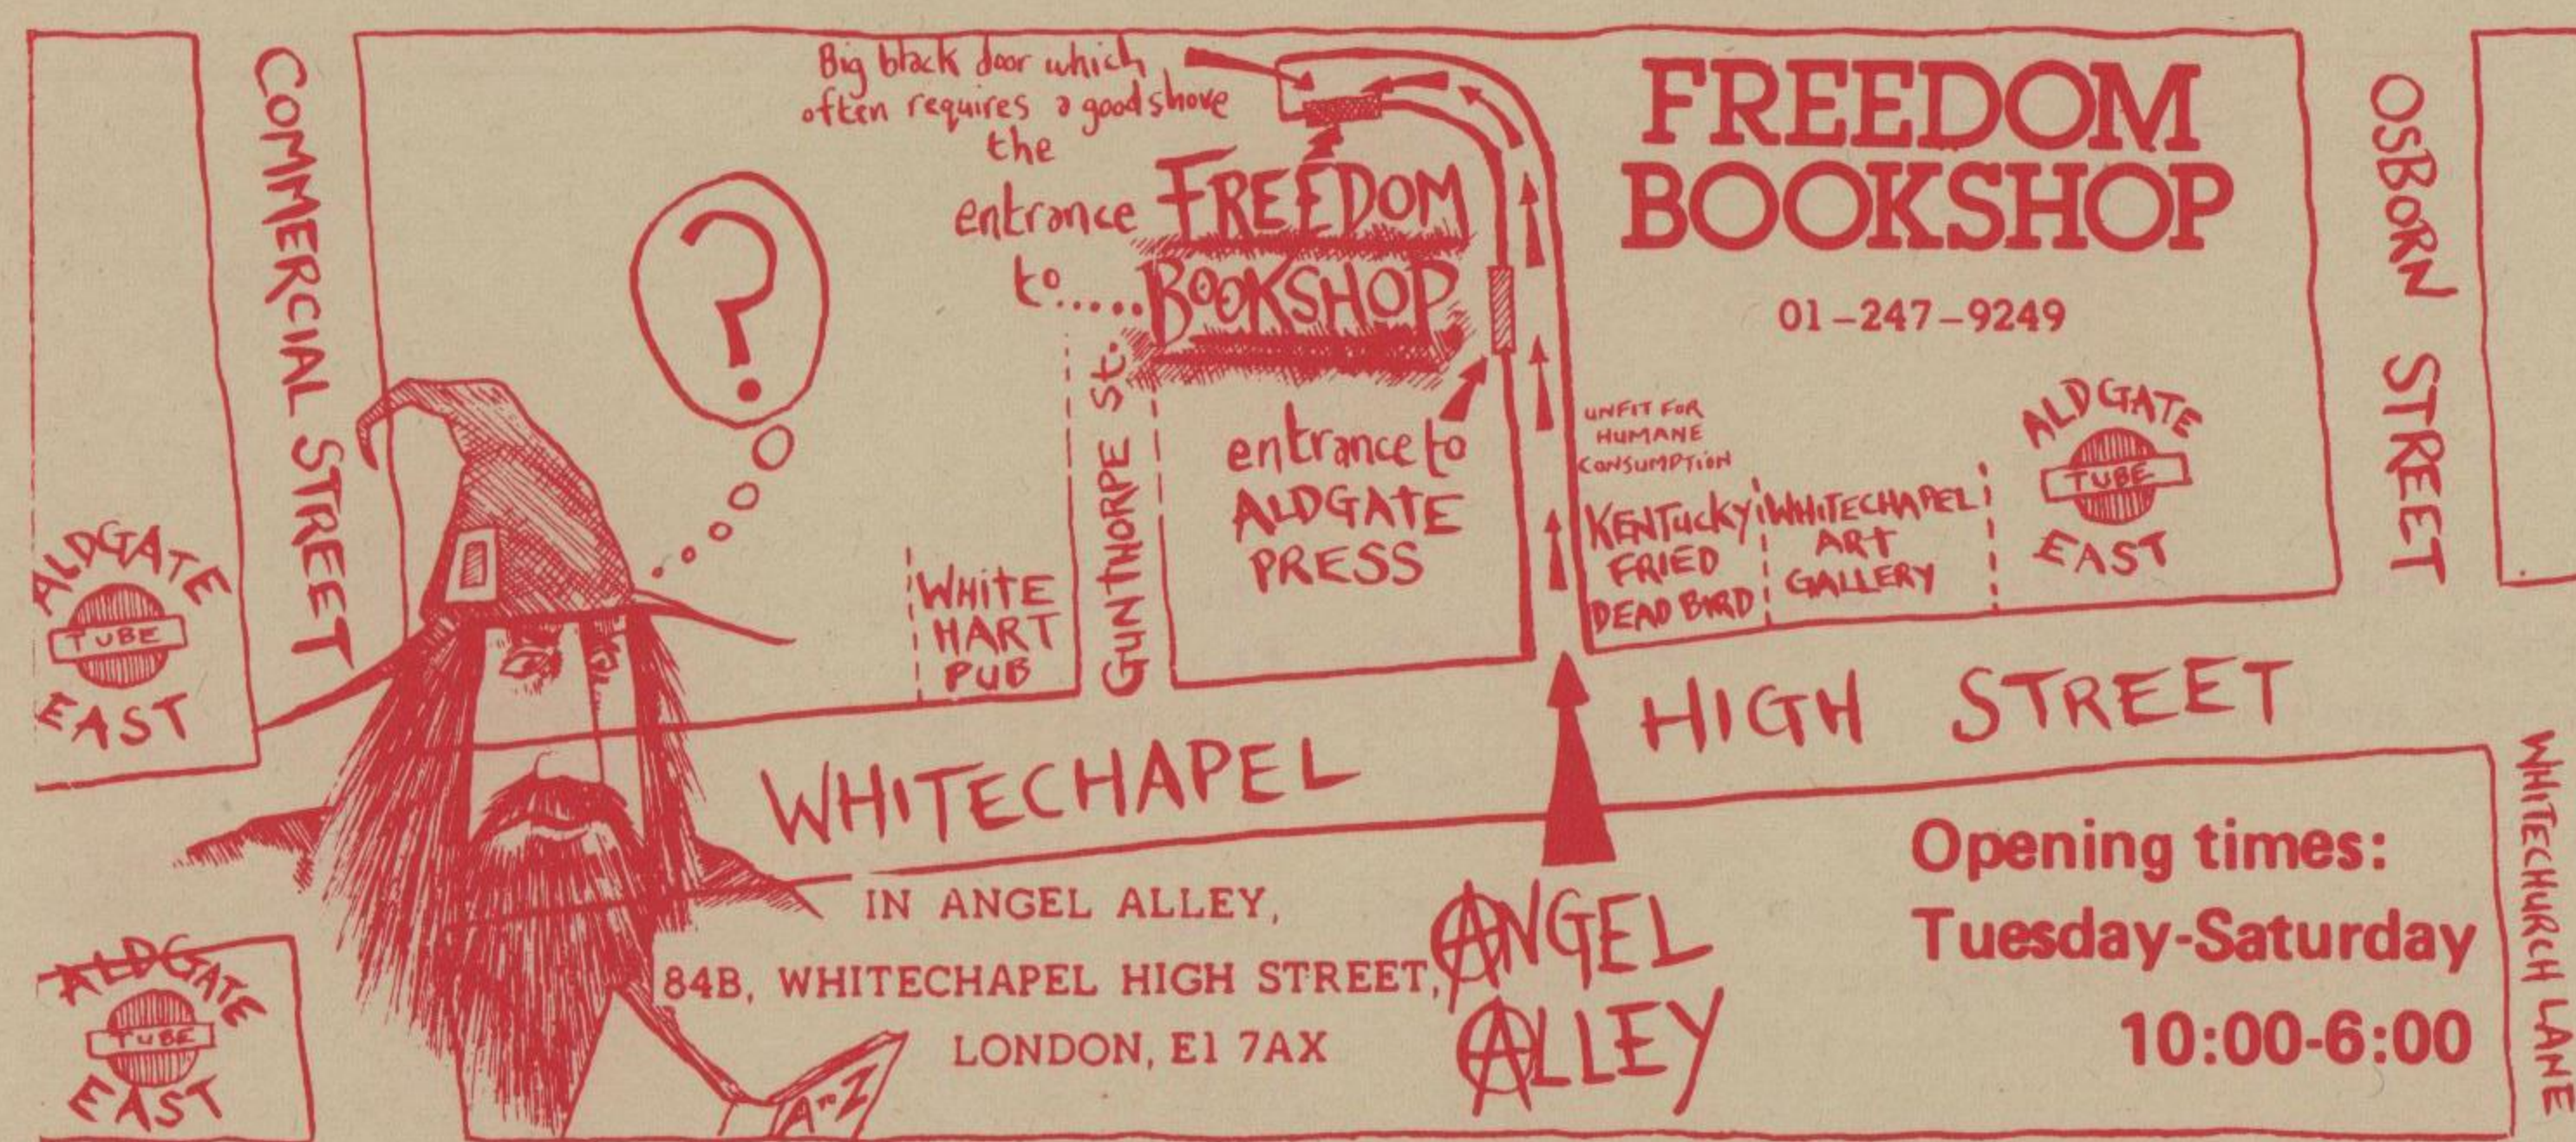

IN ANGEL ALLEY, 84b WHITECHAPEL HIGH STREET,
 LONDON E1 7QX. 01-247 9249

A typical bookshop has a front in a busy High Street but Freedom Press is hidden away at the bottom of a grotty little alley leading off Whitechapel High Street (the nearest tube is Aldgate East) and it's easy to walk past the entrance to the alley without noticing it's there. Those who eventually succeed in tracking down the alley find that at the end there is a door and that the bookshop is up the stairs, first on the right.

Freedom Press aims to have the best selection of anarchist books and pamphlets in the country, available for sale from ten till six, Tuesday to Saturday inclusive.

For those unable to visit the bookshop there's a mail-order service which charges two rates — one for people living in the UK, one for those living outside. UK — add 10% to the price of the books, Abroad — add 20% to the price of all books. All cheques in sterling please.

INDIVIDUALISM

is a distinct strand in anarchist thinking. Begins in 1845 with the publication of Max Stirner's most important work The Ego and it's Own. Is individualism the essence or an irrelevant theory of psychology? As god said to Moses, "think for yourself, schmock".

Authority and the Individual
Russell £2.95
The 1949 series of BBC Reith lectures. Some telling points against the state.

The Ego and its Own
Stirner £4.50
Latest edition of the seminal anarchist classic in Byington's venerable translation, with a lucid introduction by S E Parker.

The False Principle of our Education
Stirner £1.35
A preview in part of The Ego and it's Own by the same author.

Max Stirner's egoism

Selected essays
Labradie £1.35
Occasional work by the anarchist automobile designer.

Slaves to Duty
Badcock £1.35
"Max Stirner himself does not expound . . . Egoism in bolder fashion." (Benjamin Tucker) started out as did anarchism, as one of the ideas of European radicalism in the late nineteenth century. A hundred years later the two ideas are so widely separated that their common origin is obscured. Anarchism remains what it was, a theory of social protest, but Marxism has become not just a theory of social protest, but also the justification for a particularly vicious type of class society.

MARXISM

Anarchism and Anarcho-Syndicalism
Engels/Lenin/Marx £1.95
Selected writings from the three most prominent Marxists. Marx's and Engels' view of the First International and Lenin's of the Russian Revolution.

A discussion on the marxist theory of history.

A Fresh Look at Lenin
Brown 75p
About his ideas on the kind of economy, state and party structure which he considered appropriate for Russia, in the period before the October revolution.

Lenin and Workers' Control
30p
How the Communists destroyed workers' control in Russia and replaced it by state control.

Marxism, Freedom and the State
Bakunin £1.00
A selection from Mikael Bakunin's writings in the 1870's. The editor, K J Kenafick, author of the now out-of-print Karl Marx and Michael Bakunin contributes an introduction and a biography of Bakunin.

Marxism versus Reality
Moseley £1.00
Sets out Karl Marx's ideas in detail and then refutes them. Two appendices examining in more detail the labour theory of value and the Marxist view of contradictions.

The Poverty of Philosophy
Marx £2.50
Marx's reply to The Philosophy of Poverty, a major work by the French anarchist Proudhon. The reply is available but the original is out of print.

The Poverty of Statism
Bukharin/Fabbri/Rocker £2.00
Well-known Russian Communist Bukharin, later executed by Stalin, wrote a short attack on anarchism which is printed here with a longer reply by Italian anarchist Fabbri. Plus two articles by German-born anarchist Rocker, one on workers' councils and one on Karl Marx.

Towards a Free Society
Martin 50p
No one knows who Charles Martin is (or was). Here he says that Marxism is an aberration from and degradation of socialism.
