Give N.C.N.D a Christmas Present

We are facing a financial crisis caused by the high rent of the new office and it will be some months before the increased subscription rates agreed at the A.G.M. (see p.) begin to ease the situation.

Help to keep the campaign going and ensure that we are all here to celebrate future Christmases by giving some of that Christmas spending money to CND.

A.G.M Report

A well-attended A.G.M. on November 4th took 3 main decisions:-

1. To raise subscriptions by 50% all round. New subs will therefore be:

Ordinary: £3.75

Family (2 adults at the same address and children): £4.50

Unwaged, students, pensioners: £1.50

The increase is necessary to meet our steep rent increase.

2. To investigate changing the nature and venue of members' monthly meetings.
3. To attempt to arrange an exchange of delegations with Minsk Peace Committee by August 1986 and explore the possibility of an exchange with a suitable town in the U.S.A.

A fourth resolution on setting up new working groups was referred to the co-ordinating meeting.

Workshops were held on future activity at Chilwell. It was decided to continue these at the December members' meeting.

The chairpersons' and treasurer's reports have been circulated to groups.

ARMISTICE VIGIL

Saturday November 10th. The first Christmas-shopping crowds in Listergate. A line of silent (usually) black-clad figures at the foot of St. Peter's wall. The wall hung with wreathes of white poppies. Above - the inscription: "Who will remember the dead of a nuclear war?" and more black figures.

At the usual NCND stall, a table of white poppies (made by Wollaton and Mapperley groups) - and a CND collecting tin.

At the end of the day: £43.18 in the tin: plus the highest sales at the stall for many a week: plus, new members and contacts made: plus the crowds in Listergate stirred to think about why we were there.

NEW OFFICE NEEDED

The co-ordinating meeting decided to give the necessary 6 months notice to quit 14 - 18 St. Mary's Gate and set up a sub-committee to look for more suitable and cheaper premises.

DEFEND MOLESWORTH AGAINST CRUISE

Background

Of the 440 ground launched cruise missiles to be deployed in Europe, 64 are planned for Molesworth. The essential difference between Greenham and Molesworth (apart from the fact that Molesworth is only 60 miles from Nottingham) is that while Greenham already existed as a USAF base, complete with security fence and personnel, the proposed Molesworth site consists of 48 acres of open grassland.

Before the US can start the construction of the cruise shelters, the government has to make the site 'secure' i.e. fence it in. US funding for the new base has been frozen until it is certain that the programme is viable. Put it another way, if the fence can't be erected (and kept erected) then the base cannot be built.

The US sub-committee dealing with the funding expressed doubts as to whether such a fence could be erected and maintained on that particular site in the face of possible large-scale, well organised resistance.

The Campaign

National CND is organising a campaign to stop cruise at Molesworth. There are two main elements:

- 1) A National Demo at Easter 1985, with two, three-day marches converging on Molesworth to focus public attention on it.
- 2) To (actually) stop the erection of the perimeter fence.
(The first thing is to point out National CND's thinking on how this might be done.)

If sufficiently large numbers of people gather on the site, their simply being there will prevent work going ahead, but if only a few are there, each person would have to risk arrest and charges and could only delay the work. CND's aim is to achieve the former: it has, therefore, launched a Pledge Scheme to mobilise as many people as possible so that no one has to take desperate action.

Each of 6 regional CND groups has been given a particular day of the week to co-ordinate. (the week-end counts as one day). Our day is WEDNESDAY.

However, if Wednesday is not possible because of work or other commitments, you can pledge yourself to go on any day including, of course, the week-end.

YOU DO NOT HAVE TO COMMIT YOURSELF TO NVDA TO PARTICIPATE.

What is to be done locally?

1. Neighbourhood and affinity groups can collect pledges and plan.
2. Co-ordinating group, PAN, Women for Peace and other groups can plan publicity, transport, training, etc.
3. The Regional Co-ordinating Group is to be based on Nottingham. There is much work to be done here.

Work on the fence is due to start in February. However, it is far more likely to begin after the National Demonstration at Easter. Both dates leave us little time. Because of this some preparatory work has begun and there will be a meeting to launch the campaign in Nottingham. Please come along if you think you would like to help in any way.

The Pledge Scheme

Forms are being distributed through which people can pledge themselves to be at Molesworth on a particular day of the week for a particular length of time, once work starts on the fence. They will be asked for £1 towards expenses.

GENERALS FOR PEACE

At last! Generals may want to win battles and glory, but most of them do not want to kill people or risk being killed or seeing their families and friends killed. The formation of 'Generals for Peace' is excellent news. One hopes that it is really true and that the organisation grows rapidly.

News of 'Generals for Peace' came to me in the Guardian's Parliamentary Report on 31st October (page 25) under the heading "Peace Row - 'Soviet Connection'". The report concerned a row in the House of Lords concerning possible funding of the organisation by a registered charity 'Caroline Gourlay's Trust' and the assertion that "ex-NATO generals who have held high command should now be meeting with Soviet serving generals to discuss strategy in Europe is a matter of the gravest concern." On the contrary, it is most hopeful news!

BANG - Beeston Anti Nuclear Group, are producing a new Chilwell leaflet. They plan to distribute 10,000 to all houses near this new U.S.A.F. base. Would other groups help.

1. By contributing to the cost - £10 from each active group would go a long way towards meeting the expense.
2. By doing some delivering.

When CRUISE is LOOSE...

Since the last bulletin was printed, cruise convoys have left Greenham twice.

Cruise outings are now largely ignored by the media, and there is a real danger that the public will be lulled into accepting the dispersal of these horrendous weapons into the English countryside.

When launchers left Greenham on 30 Oct. Manchester CND rang Heseltine's secretary. He said the MOD are never informed when the launchers go out - nor would they be if it were the real thing.

How, then, are the Russians to know whether the missiles are out on a practice only? Whether they carry warheads? Whether the warheads are conventional or nuclear?

CND must keep the public AWARE of the danger we are all in. Because short notice makes centrally-organised action so difficult, it is vital that

How are the Russians to know if it's just a practice?

Would we be warned if it was for real?

H. M. Prison,
Greetwell Road,
Lincoln,
LN2 4BD.

Dear Nottingham CND,

I write this from my cell in Lincoln Prison where I have been sentenced to spend 20 days for refusing to pay a fine of £139.50 for my part in a demonstration at RAF Cottesmore last February. My 'crime' to paint peace slogans on a wall. This would seem a useful time to stop and reflect on what it is all about: on why I'm here.

Firstly, I felt I could not stand back and protest at a distance. I had to physically get in the way of the state's preparation for war. I felt a responsibility to history. To my past, my present and my future. Part of my family were murdered in Nazi concentration camps. And not enough of us interfered or got in the way. And I have a young friend called Rory who is 2 years and 4 months old, who according to his mother's will, I shall be legal guardian to in the event of her death. I am 25 years old and all my life I have lived under the shadow and threat of the cold war. I want something different for Rory. Something better. And that means doing interfering, taking direct action. For how will I be able to explain myself to Rory if I do anything less? I have often thought that in the face of my own mortality, the only way that I shall be able to give any sense or meaning to my life is if at the end of it I can look back and say 'at least I did my best.' How will I feel if at the end I look back and remember that I jumped when the murderers told me to jump, and marched where the criminals told me to march?

All this is very personal stuff. I would not push it onto anyone else. But I have other reasons too.

I honestly believe that this government (or any nuclear weapons government) will not give in to our demands just because of 'acceptable' campaigning. We have to take our campaign up a stage, simply because if we don't we shan't win.

The demand for nuclear disarmament strikes at the very heart and soul of the ruling elite of the world. They're not going to give in without a fight.

I draw on our human culture, history and tradition. For all great changes in society over the last 800 years or more, have been brought about by people taking direct action. Taking control. Everything in our society that we hold dear has been fought for by non-violent (and violent) direct action. And those who took that action and suffered the consequences were regarded at the time as extremists and trouble-makers. Today the Levellers, Tolpuddle Martyrs, Suffragettes, Chartists, Conscientious Objectors command our respect and admiration.

I took this step because I believe that just by coming together to positively affirm ourselves and our human spirit in direct action, we win a little. We re-discover and re-create in ourselves all that is best in our humanity and deny all that is corrupt and rotten. Means and ends come together. A direct action affinity group is a tiny but real expression of how I would like our world to be.

I take part in NVDA because it works. At this stage it brings us more in media publicity and propaganda and that publicity is crucial. If our movement keeps growing we will win. No government can defeat a people who insist on taking control of their lives.

Pete Strauss

(Prisoner C96231)

We have had space to print only a part of Pete's letter. Ed.

Since August this year, Boots, one of Nottingham's largest companies, has been giving publicity to the Territorial Army. They have requested Senior Managers to assist wherever possible to '...further the Company's policy of support for the T.A.' This publicity has taken the form of articles in Boots News and a poster campaign at the Main Sites geared to recruiting staff to the Reserve, some of whom no doubt took part in Operation Lionheart in September. Boots have made provision for those interested to be given details of terms of service and how to join.

Way back in March 1984 Boots received a letter from the MoD, signed by Michael Heseltine, stating that, 'since coming to power the Government has given a high priority to increasing the size of the T.A. and improving its operational capability. To this end we have embarked on a programme to expand it to a strength of 86,000 by 1990. We are also expanding the Royal Auxilliary Air Force and we have plans to increase the size of the Royal Marines Reserve.' This recruitment drive by the Ministry plainly illustrates their '...commitment to the security of our Country and the preservation of our way of life.' Presumably this remark is aimed at the 4 million unemployed who are keen to maintain their standard of living in the face of the multitude of business people falling over themselves to employ them. If the Campaign were publicised in the Dole Offices I'm quite sure all right minded people would take advantage of the opportunity to develop their '...qualities of leadership, self discipline and initiative inherent in T.A. training...' which are, of course, '...as important to the community and as beneficial to the employer as they are to the Armed Forces.'

Mr. Heseltine speaks of the T.A. as being '...highly cost effective; providing some 30% of the mobilised strength of the British Army for about 4½% of the Army Budget.' The T.A. is a volunteer reserve which is comparatively ill-trained and ill-equipped, through which the Government wishes to make a saving by increasing the British Army's reliance on its cost effective nature. At the same time, they assure the public that Civil Defence expenditure, at 0.21% of the Military Budget is equally cost effective. The £45 million annual CD bill is, as we know, devoted to sheltering the upper levels of the Civilian, Military and Police Authorities. The rest of us are advised to stay at home, hide behind a few doors, keep a supply of aspirins handy and listen to the radio.

The MoD and the Government abrogate their responsibilities by assuring us of our security whilst at the same time exposing us to the obscenity of Nuclear War.

We must be the ones who do not abrogate our responsibilities as Human Beings.

Robert Raynham,
Membership No. 1143.

Dear Nottingham CND,

At the A.G.M. we split into workshops to discuss Chilwell. All the workshops agreed that we needed more information, and that should the campaign against Chilwell continue, it should not remain simply one of Non Violent Direct Action but should involve local Neighbourhood Groups, Churches, Trade Unions (on and off the base), the County Council, Political Parties, etc., as well as NVDA groups.

Should such a campaign be decided upon it would seem sensible to form some sort of co-ordinating body to ensure that the campaign does work on a broad basis.

What worries me is that the people who expressed an interest in setting up such a group were for the most part people already involved in NVDA. If people who have interests and experience in other fields don't come forward and take on the work involved, then any Chilwell Group will by default be dominated by NVDA activists. As a result the campaign against Chilwell will continue only as Non Violent Direct Action, undoubtedly far less effective than a comprehensive multi-area campaign - and we will only have ourselves to blame.

Voice of CND

A well-informed membership is vital to our campaign. People who know the facts are moved to act.

"Sanity" provides the means of ensuring that CND members - both the activists and those who work in other ways - can fully understand and evaluate the situation. Ideally every CND member needs to be a Sanity reader.

In addition under the bulk order system, "Sanity" sales can be an important source of the regular income we so badly need. "Sanity" contributes nothing while it sits unsold on the shelves in St. Mary's Gate.

Clausewitz, the great nineteenth century theoretician on winning wars, argued that defence is always stronger than offence. Defence knows the ground and has the support of the population; offense has the advantage of surprise in time and place - but once only. Stan Windass, Director of "Just Defence" and the Defence Research Trust, speaking to students and the public in Trent Polytechnic's Open Programme, argued that developing technologies are enhancing defence.

"Advances in surveillance and 'transparency', due largely to micro-electronics, make it easier for defenders to locate enemy forces, and to eliminate the danger of surprise attack. Similar advances in armour-penetrating and precision-guided munitions make it increasingly easy to destroy ships, tanks, and aircraft. Invasion is a big, visible and expensive activity. In comparison, defence can become increasingly small, invisible and cheap."

There is no future for tank crews, sailors and pilots in the next war. A sound and much cheaper defence policy is becoming increasingly possible and sensible. Nuclear weapons are beginning to be recognised as unusable; once this recognition has been "institutionalised" negotiated reduction becomes a matter of course, and elimination - or near elimination - a possibility.

Personally I regard these views as very convincing in themselves and important. They will not, however, convince pacifists nor those who are unwilling to think realistically about defence issues.

As far as my views are concerned, "Just Defence" policies do not face up to two important, but often unrecognised, phenomena:
