SHAKTI & BHANGRA NIGHT

The New Shakti Disco and Bhangra Night takes place on Saturday 4th December at a new venue the 147 Suite, Peacock Lane, (opposite the Holiday Inn, Leicester). There is wheelchair access. The evening is presented by the South Asian Lesbian and Gay Men's Network. Everyone welcome, open in love. One cuts coal and the to all. Hope to see you there?

NOW '93, Nottingham's 5th Contemporary Archives programme brings a wide range of performances together from dance, music, film, video and visual art, focusing on contemporary culture and creative talents.

Within the Festival there are performances which highlight Gay culture today, drawing on observations and personal experience, mixing amusement with confusion and tension with intrigue.

GLORIA: "NIGHT AFTER NIGHT PART ONE"

Nov 16 at 8.00pm Powerhouse, Victoria Studios, Shakespeare Street.

Neil Bartlett's new one-man show is the final part of a triumphant series of theatre pieces which began in 1989. A painfully funny and profoundly moving piece which should not be missed.

ROBERT PACITTI: "HE WAS A SCARY BABY"

Nov 27 at 8.30pm Powerhouse, Victoria Studios, Shakespeare Street.

It's as confused, damaged and dishonest as Gay male culture and the performer himself. Using daily rituals such as shaving or putting on make-up he traces a personal history - but whose is not always clear! This piece is both intimate and amusing.

MICHAEL ATAVAR: "TINY STARS"

Dec 3 at 11.15pm Diamond Cable Cinema 2, Broadway, Broad Street.

Michael Atavar was born in Wigan on the day Elvis & Priscilla got married and he has never looked back since! Hold on for a roller-coaster ride through Gay culture, TV celebrity and showbiz.

QUEER PITCHES: AS PART OF 'DISCUSSION EVENTS'

Nov 15 at 12.30pm - 2.00pm NOW'93 CafeBar Broadway, Broad Street.

In the era of AIDS and debate about Gay identities, is there an agenda for homosexual artists and, if there is, what is it? Who should Queer art address and where can it be shown in the current censorial climate?

The CafeBar, Broadway, is open as 'second-home' to all Festival goers. A special invitation will be given on purchase of any performance tickets; hold on to it and take advantage of the late licence to mingle with other Festival goers and artists alike.

We hope you have seen the Festival brochure by now, which gives full details of all the performances. NOW'93 is a celebration of the arts from all cultures, bringing out in the open that which is not considered 'main stream'. Each performance is as accessible as it is enjoyable, we hope you enjoy it to the full.

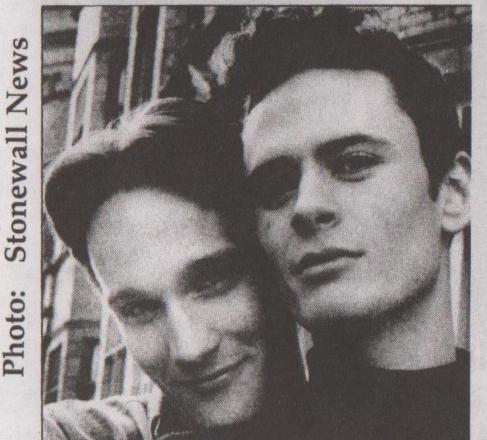

NOW'93 gets off to an intensely thrilling start with a performance of manipulated fire sculpture by Eric Hobjin -The Dante Organ - which will be staged on the roof of the Council House, The Old Market Square and concludes with Rhythms of The Globe, a multi-media event incorporating dance, percussion, computer generated images, & sculpture on Dec 3rd and 4th.

"EQUALITY NOW!"

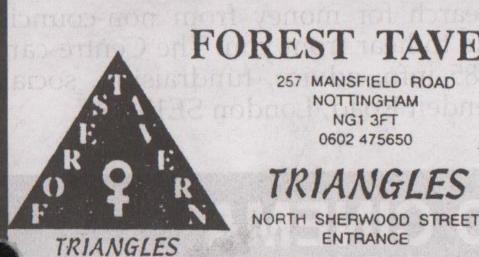

A packed meeting at the City Rooms, Leicester last month responded with enthusiasm to calls for an equal age of consent for gay men from Simon Fanshawe, broadcaster and comedian and Hugo Greenhalgh and William Parry (pictured), the two young gay men who are taking the UK to the European Court on the grounds that the UK age of consent for homosexual sex violates European Law.

Simon Fanshawe said: "I am asking you all to write to your local MPs', to go and see them in their surgeries and to demonstrate to them that there is an overwhelming public demand for a change in the law. The actual age of consent matters less than the principle; we are asking for the age of 16 because it gives us equality. We are not prepared to compromise on that. We are entitled to equality before the law".

Hugo and William aged 20 and 24 in an impressive and moving double act admitted that they had broken the law. Hugo said: "If convicted I could be sent to prison for 2 years; Will could be sentenced, as the older man to 4 years. All for a private consensual act that harms nobody. We both know what we are doing." It is extraordinary that society considers us old enough to go to prison but not to have sex together of our own

The meeting launched a petition for an equal gay age of consent to be presented to John Major. Nearly everyone present agreed to write or visit their MP to press the case for equality. The meeting was jointly organised by Leicester Lesbian & Gay Action and Leicester Lesbian & Gay Resource Centre.

UNDERNEATH THE ARCHES

While many lesbians and gay men continue to mourn the closure of London's Lesbian and Gay Centre, the Black lesbian and gay community is celebrating Europe's first Black Lesbian and Gay Centre which is a year old and in London. Homeless for five years the collective worked from a small office responding to letters and phone calls from isolated black lesbians and gays all over Britain.

Clarence Allen believes they took so long to find premises because of the racism

THE FRUITS OF SUCCESS

The new owners of the Pineapple in Leicester have already made their mark since they took over the pub a month ago. (Philip Bowers and Mark Brierley pictured, front page with their right hand man David in the middle). Philip and David are from Nottingham whilst Mark is from Derby and they are looking forward to settling in Leicester. The pub never quite made it with the previous tenants, though they had overseen major conversion work. This is now bearing fruit with the opening of the new Varda Bar upstairs which promises to be a popular haunt for loud disco music, augmenting the theatre bar and front bar. There is an all over friendly atmosphere around the place these days and plans are already in hand for a regular women's night.

Unlike some bar owners they are well rooted in the community itself and know the importance of putting something back.

In the first issue of their pub newsletter they nail their colours to the mast. In addition to promoting safer sex, they also call for a boycott of Benetton because of their anti-HIV poster campaign. And they are already gearing up for Pride 94 minibuses; not bad for the first month. They both make it clear in their newsletter that they are business partners only, so there won't be any lovers tiffs behind the bar. The only argument likely is which one of them escorts the strippers to the changing rooms!

A mesmerising thriller of violent passions by Philip Whitchurch

Based on La Bete Humaine by Emile Zola

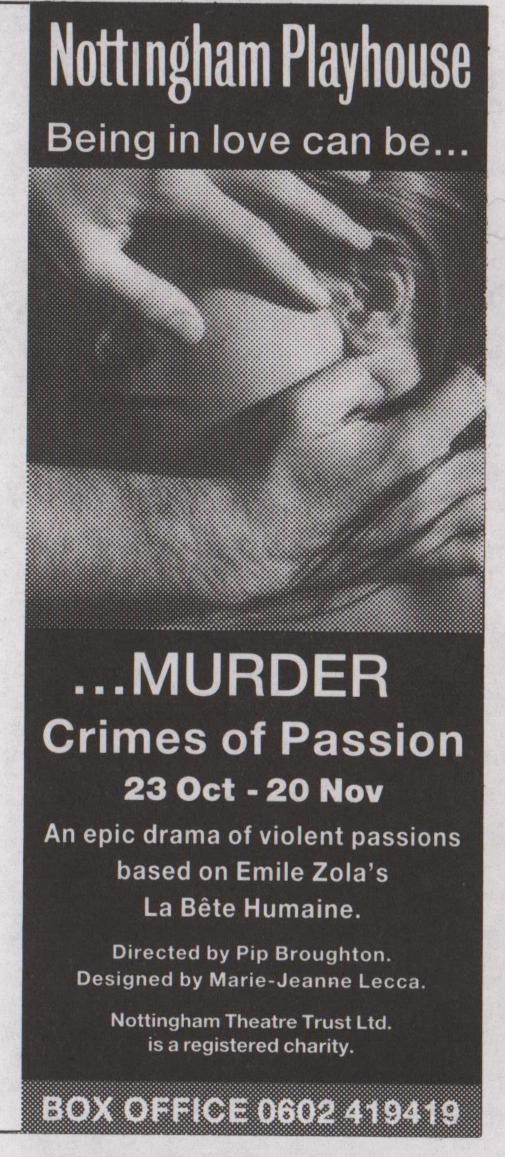

A story of desire, brutality, love and bitterness.

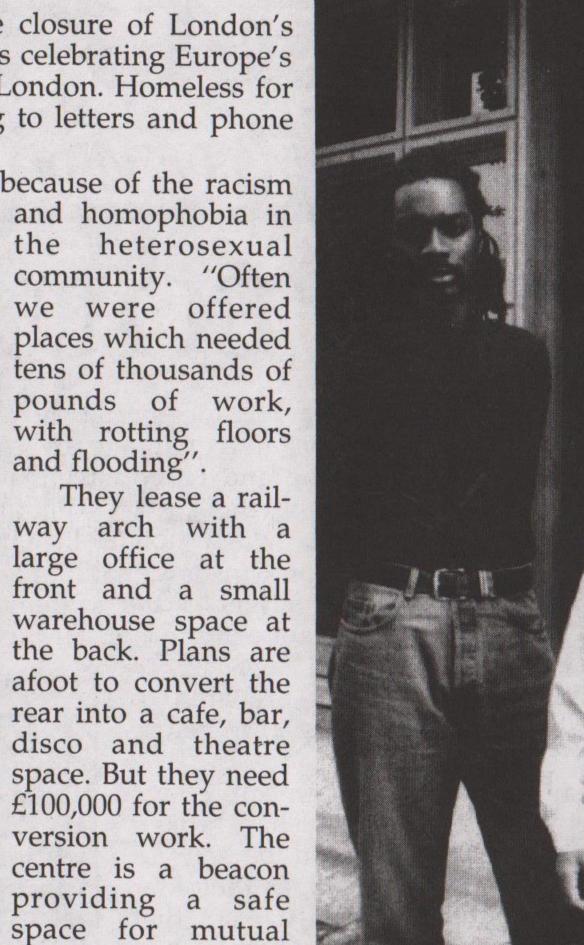

Crimes of Passion brilliantly combines a powerful and disturbing exploration of sex, murder and the criminal psychopath with a dry and witty expose of a sordid government cover-up.

HOW WE MET

Crash, bang, wallop!

Anne Shaw and Jacky Porter (pictured left to right) met in rather strange circumstances. "I had been to the Leisure Centre to meet friends who didn't turn up and was on my way home. It was dark and suddenly this car swerved in front of me, mounted the payement, just missing my foot and this spiky haired woman just higher than the dashboard, pokes her head out the window and apologises for nearly running me down!" That's Jacky talking. But now Anne is keen to tell her side of the story.

"I wasn't really aiming for her - I saw her go into the Leisure Centre as I was driving past and really fancied her. And then I got butterflies in the tummy and started to shake and was a nervous wreck. When she came out, my enthusiastic 'U' turn ended with me mounting the kerb, and stopping just in time. But I offered to buy her a drink," she adds a bit sheepishly.

"I thought she was a bit crazy", laughs Jacky. You don't expect to be propositioned after nearly being run down! But by now the chemistry was working on Jacky who by now had sized up Anne and decided this could be an accident worth happening.

She got in the car and off they went to MacDonalds and a local pub and that really was the beginning of their relationship. Anne had been living with her parents at the time in Chesterfield and Jacky had been flitting from a previous relationship and had est set up house four months previously with two of her children on an estate in the

At first Anne just came to stay for short periods and gradually these became longer. "I kept popping up here and there and the children soon got used to me. Jacky's two children, a girl of 12 and a boy of 7 were not phased by this. Nor was the community it seems. Anne and Jacky are very open and positive about their relationship. Jacky also has a 17 year old daughter and has been a grandmother for two years at the ripe old age of 35.

Anne: "There was no way she looked old enough. I didn't care whether she had children or not, and she wasted no time in telling me when we met. Some of our lesbian friends have children; it seems to be the thing round here. In the next few streets there are three sets of lesbians with children and two gay couples."

Jacky's family are supportive of her sexuality but no such luck with Anne's. At first they were very cool to Jacky "I dont think they knew lesbians existed", she laughs. "My brother would leave the room when I came in but he's getting used to things a bit now and is a lot better. And it seems her parents are coming round too."

The hassles that visit many lesbian couples with children seem to be absent in Chesterfield. Perhaps its something in the air or the water but whatever it is, it can't be bad. I wished them luck as I left. "We don't need it", said Jacky, laughing. I left convinced of that.

EYE WITNESS REPORT

Thousands marched against fascism in London on the 16th October. Dave Hutchison describes what happened that day.

"With four racist murders - all happening within two miles of the Nazi British National Party Headquarters - still on the minds of the 50,000 marchers made it the biggest anti-racist demonstration Britain has seen in years.

closure of the BNP HQ in Welling, South East London. past the BNP HQ, many intended to ignore this ban. The demonstration had been organised months ago but four days before the demo the police changed the route.

The demo finally began at 2.45pm with Anti-Nazi chants ringing in our ears.

Barriers, police vans and riot police with shields and batons were on every side road as we marched. No attempt was made to direct the march up the route Police preferred, instead placing horses and police to confront the demo.

At 3.30pm the riot police charged into the crowd, followed by mounted police, scattering people in blind panic. With snarling dogs blocking our way a retreat into the cemetery was impossible.

Only a call for calm by the stewards prevented a disaster. For the next hour the demo was at a standstill. Police charged the demo, each time it tried to move. Tempers rose in pure anger and hatred at this organised police brutality. An hour later with the withdrawal of the police, thousands managed to reach the park safely.

Once in the Park, stewards and individual marchers secured the back of the march, attempting to protect it from further attack, but with fewer demonstrators now, and dwindling light the police deliberately

Around 7.30pm our coach finally set out for Nottingham. Our unifying aim was the None on our coach were injured, though some of us at times were at the front of the march face to face with the riot police, myself included. Record Roundup by Simon Smalley

Dance yourself dizzy

Gay faves M People follow up their debut LP 'Northern Soul' with 'Elegant Slumming', a polished platter of foot-tappers guaranteed to make you jig about in wild abandon. Collecting their influences together, they simmered away on a low light until the pan boiled over on the fablicious "One Night in Heaven" single. OK, so it is a blatant rip-off of Linda Carr & The Love Squad's 1975 disco delight 'Highwire', but you can't deny it's an irresistible single, always creating an exodus from bar to dancefloor. There are a few too many other ...er ...similarities with other people's songs on this LP for my liking. Apart from 'Heaven', it contains a piano run from Talk Talk and the line 'Our Love is a

Frankie Goes to Hollywood - they had it all. Leather, rubber, titrings, ho-mo-sex-uals and a half ounce of talent. They brought to the charts and tabloids the sounds and images of gay cellar bars and dingy alleys, being roughly pushed up against a wall and ... oh, sorry, I forget meself sometimes. So, ten years on from them bulging into the public or just simply new at the time? It's up to you. See you anon! eye we find the Greatest Hits package. 'Relax' still sounds exciting & homosexy, making you want to strap up (and we

Their amazing publicity machine and Sex Pistols takethe-money-and-run tactics ensured them chart domination a decade ago, but now well, it's 'File Under Has-Beens'.

What more can be said about The which went from being mere popsongs to becoming universal standards that traversed the language barrier. Returning to Beatles' songs is like slipping on a pair of old comfy shoes, from the initial fresh-faced force of 'Love Me Do' & 'She Loves You' to the latter day crazed trippiness of 'Lucy in the Sky With Diamonds' and 'Strawberry Fields Forever'. Undoubtedly, they did some excellent stuff, a lot of their later work became increasingly interesting as the drugs took hold - but they also did some crap! Were they truly ahead of their time

A HINT OF YOUTH

On 20th November, 1993 Base 51 will be hosting the first day event for Lesbian, Gay and Bisexual Young people (under 26) in Nottinghamshire. The day and evening have been planned by and for Lesbian Gay and Bisexual Young people and whilst specifically for Nottinghamshire it is a country-wide event.

The day has been fully funded and will be free including food, drinks, transport, signers and creche. During the day a variety of workshops will be on offer; Men's Sexual Health, HIV/AIDS, Womens Sexual Health, Racism, Coming Out, Leaving Home, Depression/ strength/assertiveness, S & M, Video, Campaigning/Politics, Media, Substance abuse, bereavement.

For those wishing some physical excitement an Urban Adventure Centre has been booked where canoeing, climbing, abseiling, caving and mountain biking will be on offer throughout the afternoon (bring a change of clothes if you fancy canoeing!)

If you want to stay on and party in the evening there will be a disco (bring your wn alcohol if you want any) plus various videos and for the more mellow, a relaxation and massage workshop!

The workshop facilitators will all be lesbian or gay with the added attraction of one of the producers of Radio 1's "Loud & Proud", Mark Ovenden, leading a media workshop.

The premises are fully accessible and minibus transport throughout Nottinghamshire is available. A counsellor will also be available at Base 51 all day.

So if you want to talk, share experiences, party, try outdoor pursuits, enjoy a massage or just hang out for the day with other lesbian, gay and bisexual young people, and are under 26, then be there. A day not to miss. Contact Notts. Lesbian & Gay Switchboard for details O602 411454.
